Pertinent Questions Asked of City Recorder and Answered.

Replies Would Indicate That Municipal Ownership Is a Very Remote Possibility.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, June 27.-While the action of councilman Davidson in the City Council ession last night, deferring action that might be taken on the proposed franchise f the Ogden Waterworks company and that of the Citizens' Water company, is generally commended, the intention beng to investigate as to whether or not city of Ogden was in a position to ac-the city of Ogden was in a position to accuire, own and operate its own water system. The conditions do not look favorable to an accomplishment of this much desired result.

However, there are two weeks time before the Council in which to investigate the possibilities and much might be accomplished in two weeks. On the other team, a mere committee of members of the City Coincil would not be likely to rerider a report that would be an intelligent guide to the body. One member today, and he is on the side of the noble, asked the pertinent question. What can a committee of members of the Council report as to the probable cost of a water system? Engineers must report, and the resolution does not provide for the employment of competent engineers. The question of sources of water must not only be determined, but the features of the conduits and distributing mains have to be considered. "Has the city the funds, or in lieu of the money, has it the bonding power to raise funds sufficient to accomplish this desired."

City Recorder's View

hose questions seemed pertinent and s Recorder Critchlow was approached ascertain just what the city's power in this respect. His information did seem favorable to the enterprise that desired to result in municipal nership of the waterworks. reply to questions he stated that the is now bonded in the sum of $59,000, set the law a bonded indebtedness of the cent of the assessed valuation of or cent of the assessed valuation of city may be levied for general purses, and an additional 4 per cent for acquisition of electric light and water tems, or the construction of the same, he agastesed valuation of Ogden has a was $3,00,000. The bonding authority the city is a per ecut of this, or $752. Of this sum $550,000 are already is all, and he resolution to sell $190,000 (tional bonds for away extensions has aday messed.

Remote Possibility. The question of municipal ownership is, therefore, a remote possibility. It is stated that the amount yet available to escured by the sale of bonds, under the Up the Town. regulations is not more than sufleient to buy out the equity, as decided or the courts, of the Ogden Waterworks empany. cided by the courts that whoever is the successor of that equity must become liable for the bended indebtedness of the Ogden Waterworks company. This, it is stated, amounts to Mis.coo, and some of the city officials, those most familiar with the indebtedness of the city, say that the amount is beyond the capacity of the city under the present laws.

The only relief possible seems to be the adoption of the extremely indefinits proposition of President Dee of the Ogden Waterworks company, etc. etc. the head of the alleged combination that is said to own all the public utilities of Ogden.

Mr. Dee's Statement.

Mr. Dee's Statement.

Mr. Dee's Statement.

In last night's meeting of the City Council Councilman Williams stated that Mr. Dee had told him that the question of the water for Ogden would never be settled until the city owned the system. Just what Mr. Dee's position was in the matter, of what terms his corporation would surrender the rights, was not made clear or offered. One thing is certain, however: That the equity in the plant and the bonded indobtedness of the same are away in excess of the city's purchasing power. Some people are mean enough to say that they are much in excess—some—four or five times—of their actual worth.

but without disturbing its members or rendering them unable to respond. In the first instance, while three calls came in in six hours there was no serious lees, and one of the calls was what is designated as 'needless."

The first call came in at $138 a.m. It was an alarm of fire at Tenth street and Grant avenue. Two barns in close proximity were in danger, one of them being on fire. The steamer did not reach the fire, but Chief Graves and Assistant Chief Rogers drove shead and arrived there just as the last of the flames were extinguished. A bucket brigade with cool heads and ready hands had been organised and the fire was put out just as the apparatus was reaching the scene.

The second call came at 12-27 p. m. It was a run to Twenty-eighth street and Pacific avenue, where an empty car belonging to the Erie railroad had taken fire from a spark from a locomotive. The fire was quickly extinguished, at a loss of $25.

The third call was the 'needless call." I was in the shop of the Leavitt Butcher company, and was caused by a kettle of lard boiling over. The shop is at Seventeenth and Washington avenue. The blaze was extinguished without loss, but the run for the department was a long and hard one.

The programme of games and contests is elaborate. Among the numbers is a nail-driving contest for ladies and a prize worthy of the effort has been offered, the character and value of which is withheld by the committee for prudential reasons.
